

Two learners killed by lightning in Limpopo

March 14, 2007, 21:15

Two Limpopo high school learners have been killed by lightning, and a third sustained serious burn wounds at the St. Marks College at Jane Furse in the Sekhukhune area.

Simon Choshane, the principal, says the learners were struck by lightning near the school on their way home during light rain. The injured learner has been taken to the nearby Jane Furse hospital.

Choshane says the parents of the deceased have been notified. He says the incident has shocked the community.
