BBC reports a lightning strike at a soccer game in Malawi, Africa (under Tanzania) today killed 5 and injured 100 (yes, 102). No details provided, but at a guess, the huge number of injuries were people leaning on a metal fence/railing, or metal bleachers. This is the largest number of injuries I've heard of from a single lightning flash, but maybe those with more years in this area know of an even more extreme case.
